Press release

Premiere at interzum 2023

HPL Compendium of the ICDLI now also in Italian language

Frankfurt am Main, 5/5/2023. Just in time for the start of the world's leading trade fair for furniture production and interior design, interzum 2023, on 9 May, the ICDLI (International Committee of the Decorative Laminates Industry aisbl) is now presenting its unique HPL Compendium in Italian. This means that the knowledge package on HPL and HPL-Compact is becoming increasingly international and is now available in three languages, besides Italian also in German and English. Further language versions of the compendium in Turkish, French and Spanish are being prepared and planned.

For several years now, the HPL Compendium has been providing everything worth knowing about the HPL material system in a compact and well-founded form. As a central component of the ICDLI knowledge initiative, it offers information on the production, processing and application of the material for fabricators, suppliers and architects as well as the professionals of tomorrow. With the Italian language version, the compendium continues to grow beyond the German-speaking market and thus also facilitates the cooperation of property developers across national borders.

The textbook is available – each free of charge – in print format from the ICDLI secretariat in Frankfurt am Main and as a PDF file on the association's website at www.icdli.com.

HPL know-how at interzum

If you would like to get a direct impression of the new language version or take a copy with you, the ICDLI is the place to be at interzum (9 to 12 May 2023) in Cologne: all HPL compendiums will be presented in the HPL Gallery in Hall 5.2, Stand: G79. In addition, there will be a wide range of information on the performance properties and areas of application of the material system, presented inter alia by using decor examples to touch and look at.
